Testimonial

After an extensive review, we recently appointed the OBD Academy as our preferred Learning & Development partner. We've entered into a long-term agreement with the OBD Academy as we want to create a Learning & Development platform that offers consistency, connects our leadership population to a uniform standard and allows us to leverage our available budget to reach a wider audience.

Since going 'live' at the beginning of July, we have been delighted and impressed with how our people have responded to this new way of learning.

The content is practical and, with assignments linking the learning to the workplace, we've seen high levels of participation and active engagement. There's a good buzz about the place and I've observed people discussing modules with one another and offering support – already we're getting requests to join the programme from other colleagues.

The standout feature has been the support offered by the business coaches – each learner has their own coach! The unanimous view is that they are critical to embedding the learning and, by offering an external perspective, they bring a refreshing challenge to our way of thinking.

I am very happy with our decision to appoint the OBD Academy. Whilst they're challenging, responsive and very supportive, they're also great fun to work with. So far, so good, and we look forward to a close collaborative relationship going forward.
